Maria's involvement in the scheme began innocently enough. She was approached by a friend who asked her to help transfer some money. Maria agreed, not knowing that the money was actually the proceeds of crime. As the scheme grew, Maria found herself trapped. She was afraid to go to the police, because she knew that she would be arrested. She was also afraid of the criminals who were behind the scheme. They had threatened her life, and she knew that they would not hesitate to carry out their threats.

In 2015, the police finally caught up with Maria. She was arrested and charged with money laundering. She was convicted and sentenced to five years in prison. While in prison, Maria wrote a book about her experiences. In the book, she tells the story of how she got involved in the money laundering scheme, how she tried to escape, and how she survived her time in prison.
